Curricular Competencies – Elaborations

- Use historical inquiry processes and skills to ask questions; gather, interpret, and analyze ideas and data; and communicate findings and decisions:

Key skills:

- Draw conclusions about a problem, an issue, or a topic.
- Assess and defend a variety of positions on a problem, an issue, or a topic.
- Demonstrate leadership by planning, implementing, and assessing strategies to address a problem or an issue.
- Identify and clarify a problem or issue.
- Evaluate and organize collected data (e.g., in outlines, summaries, notes, timelines, charts).
- Interpret information and data from a variety of maps, graphs, and tables.
- Interpret and present data in a variety of forms (e.g., oral, written, and graphic).
- Accurately cite sources.
- Construct graphs, tables, and maps to communicate ideas and information, demonstrating appropriate use of grids, scales, legends, and contours.

- Assess the significance of people, places, events, or developments, and compare varying perspectives on their significance at particular times and places, and from group to group (significance):

Key questions:

- What factors can cause people, places, events, or developments to become more or less significant?
- What factors can make people, places, events, or developments significant to different people?
- What criteria should be used to assess the significance of people, places, events, or developments?

Sample activities:

- Use criteria to rank the most important people, places, events, or developments in their current unit of study.
- Compare how different groups assess the significance of people, places, events, or developments.

- Assess the justification for competing accounts after investigating points of contention, reliability of sources, and adequacy of evidence, including data (evidence):

Key questions:

- What criteria should be used to assess the reliability of a source?
- How much evidence is sufficient in order to support a conclusion?
- How much about various people, places, events, or developments can be known and how much is unknowable?

Sample activities:

- Compare and contrast multiple accounts of the same event and evaluate their usefulness as historical sources.
- Examine what sources are available and what sources are missing and evaluate how the available evidence shapes our perspective on the people, places, events, or developments studied.

Curricular Competencies – Elaborations

- Compare and contrast continuities and changes for different groups at particular times and places (continuity and change):

Key questions:

- What factors lead to changes or continuities affecting groups of people differently?
- How do gradual processes and more sudden rates of change affect people living through them? Which method of change has more of an effect on society?
- How are periods of change or continuity perceived by the people living through them versus how they are perceived after the fact?

Sample activity:

- Compare how different groups benefited or suffered as a result of a particular change.

- Assess how underlying conditions and the actions of individuals or groups influence events, decisions, or developments, and analyze multiple consequences (cause and consequence):

Key questions:

- What is the role of chance in particular events, decisions, or developments?
- Are there events with positive long-term consequences but negative short-term consequences, or vice-versa?

Sample activities:

- Assess whether the results of a particular action were intended or unintended consequences.
- Evaluate the most important causes or consequences of various events, decisions, or developments.

- Explain and infer different perspectives on past or present people, places, issues, or events by considering prevailing norms, values, worldviews, and beliefs (perspective):

Key questions:

- What sources of information can people today use to try and understand what people in different times and places believed?
- How much can one generalize about values and beliefs in a given society or time period?
- Is it fair to judge people of the past using modern values?

Sample activity:

- Explain how the beliefs of people on different sides of the same issue influence their opinions.

- Make reasoned ethical judgments about actions in the past and present, and assess appropriate ways to remember and respond (ethical judgment):

Key questions:

- What is the difference between implicit and explicit values?
- Why should one consider the historical, political, and social context when making ethical judgements?
- Should people of today have any responsibilities for actions taken in the past?
- Can people of the past be celebrated for great achievements if they have also done things today considered unethical?

Sample activity:

- Assess the responsibility of historical figures for an important event. Assess how much responsibility should be assigned to different people, and evaluate whether their actions were justified given the historical context.
- Examine various media sources on a topic and assess how much of the language contains implicit and explicit moral judgements.
