

EFP LITERARY STUDIES + NEW MEDIA 11 (4 credits)

Description

EFP Literary Studies + New Media 11 is designed for students who are interested in studying First Peoples' literature and examining the evolving role of technology in today's society, especially the increasing importance of digital media in communicating and exchanging ideas and engaging in social advocacy. Students delve deeply into First Peoples' oral and written literature in a range of media to explore various themes, authors, and topics. This provides a foundation for students to think critically and creatively as they continue to explore, extend, and strengthen their own writing and communication. Students examine the increasingly complex digital world and have opportunities to demonstrate understanding and communicate sophisticated ideas through a wide variety of digital and print media. Through the study of literature and critical engagement with new media, students

- extend their capacity to communicate effectively in a variety of contexts
- deepen their understanding of themselves and the world
- expand their understanding of what it means to be educated Canadian and global citizens

The following are possible areas of study within EFP Literary Studies + New Media 11:

- The influence of new media on First Peoples' personal and cultural identities — Ideas include cultural homogenization, authenticity in representation, and cultural appropriation.
- Exploration of First Peoples themes as represented in new media — Ideas include creating multigenerational narratives, contextualizing self in relation to community, expressing relationship to land, with consideration of issues such as cultural appropriation and inauthenticity.
- New media performance art in relation to First Peoples' themes — Ideas include creating slam poetry, oratory, rap, drama, song, or multimodal work.
- Intersections between First Peoples' themes and online social advocacy — Suggested content includes Indigeneity and feminism, Indigeneity and LGBTQ, Indigeneity and inclusion, Indigeneity and environmental sustainability.
- Media studies related to First Peoples' themes — Ideas include the globalization of the media industry, representation of First Peoples in media, and documentaries in the age of digital media.
- Journalism & publishing related to First Peoples' themes — Ideas include changing roles and structures within news organizations; risks, challenges, and opportunities associated with professional journalism; how journalism and publishing can support preservation and revitalization of language and culture.
- Digital communication related to First Peoples' themes — Ideas include blogging, writing for the Web, writing for social media, gaming, and podcasting and potentially including how these can support preservation and revitalization of language and culture.
